STOCKS IN THE EAST

Market Is Generally Dull and Heavy In Tone.

---REVIEW OF THE WEEK

ONE FEATURE HAS BEEN THE STRENGTH OF SILVER.

New York, Sept. 8 .- With the exception of a dabbling speculation in sor of the specialties, notably People's Gas. Sugar and Brooklyn Transit, no par-ticular interest attached to the lealings. The holiday in London aggravated the dui)ness, and the weakness of the active specialties made the general tone heavy. The impending strike of anthracite miners had a depressing influence on sentiment generally, though the coalers themselves were little affected. New Jersey Central recovered most of its early decline and Reading first preferred was not down more than a fraction at any time. None of the other stocks of the anthracite carrying roads was dealt in. The comparative firmness of the coalers was partly due to the recent large output of coal e firmness of the coalers was partly to the recent large output of coal
m the mines and partly to a belief to the strike might be restricted hin narrow limits. But the prostof a controversy affecting so large body of laborers and such large instments of capital being abandoned hostile methods for settlement bused uneasiness among holders and erators in securities. Yesterday's rearoused uneasiness among holders and operators in securities. Yesterday's recovery in Brooklyn Transit gave place to a relapse today and People's Gas continued weak, in spite of an effort to make it appear that the Chicago Gas was cove ed by an understanding between the contending companies. A large demand from the shorts rallied the stock and practically all the loss was recovered. The weak bank return failed to affect the market. The movement of currency to the interior has evidently been larger than the preliminary estimates indicate. It is evident also that the banks have been obliged to draw on their legal tenders to meet this demand.

Review of the Week.

Review of the Week.

Review of the Week.

The stock market made a false start again this week, after the three days of idleness, and after a brief flurry of activity dropped back into its lethargy and prices sagged again to the former level. The general investment or speculative world was not a participant in the dealings at any time, but there was some evidence of bolder and larger operations of a professional character. some evidence of bolder and larger operations of a professional character, which was supposed to be due to the antry of some of the larger leaders recently returned from vacations abroad. The board room professionals, who have attributed the prevailing dullness to political cause, expected that the determination of the Vermont electoral contest would lead to some activity. The London stock market was impressed with the same view and Amerpressed with the same view and American stocks were pushed up briskly on the London exchange on Wednesday morning before the opening here. But the local market eagerly availed itself of the London demand to unload some heavy blocks. Later in the day stocks were bought again in the hope that the demand from London would be renewed on Thursday, but that hope was quickly dissipated. Thursday morning sed with the same view and Amernewed on Thursday, but that hope was quickly dissipated Thursday morning and London clearly showed its disappointment at New York's failure to co-operate in the buying movement. The disposition on the part of London to buy stocks here was increased by the marked ease of money at that center and the generally more cheerfy. ter and the generally more cheerfu the vigorous measure adopted by the Bank of England by large borrowings from the open market checked the downward tendency and got an inti-mation of knowledge of some future demands to be made upon the money

Talk of National Loans

Suggestions are here heard of an additional British loan to be placed, and the presence in France of the Russian minister of finance arouses discussion here of means to meet the Russian demands. The London market hardened in consequence, and at the same time sterling exchange weakened in New York under offerings of cotton bills brought on the market by the urgent buying of cash cotton to tide over the English shortage. This dissipated the hones of London of a gold movement from New York. It is considered probable that future British loans may seek a lodgment in New York with a able that future British loans may seek a lodgment in New York with a view to inducing further movement of gold to London. The constant receipt by New York banks of remittances account of the Klondike gold and current output of American mines are both to output of American mines are both to be reckoned with in judging the quesbe reckoned with in Judging the ques-tion of reserves.

A feature of the week was the strength of silver on the demand for remittances from China. The decrease in merchandise shipments to China on account of the trouble there calls for shipments of silver against merchan-dise received from China. The apathy of capital toward securities has been quite as marked in the bond market as in stocks.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS. Market Is Dull, But Close Is Much of the Saturday short session pervaded the wheat market throughout. The tone, the wheat market throughout. The tone, however, was firm. October opened %c higher at 73%@73%, because Liverpool was steady and unwelcome rains were again reported damaging wheat in shoce in the northwest. Following the opening October on selling by scalpers touched 73½c, but at the dip there was some influential buying. This stirred up shorts and October advanced to 73½d/dc. The close was firm, October %@%c over yesterday 73%, the corn strength helping to sustain the market toward the end.

Corn was moderately active and strong. Liverpool was %d higher. October closed strong, % up at 5%@39.

Oats made a quiet beginning, but were more active later. October closed %c higher at 21%.

Provisions continued strong. Packers dightened the screws some today and shorts did their best to cover. October pork closed 12½c higher, lard 10c up and ribs 12½c better.

of the requirements of the 25 per cent rule.

The Financier says:
The statement of the banks of New York for the week ending Sept. § reflects a somewhat greater degree of business activity both in the matter of local call bans and with the interior. For the first time in a long period the banks have received less money than they have forwarded to western and southern noints. They gained, it is true, as a result of the transactions with the sub-treasury, but the system of averages employed does not show the exact balance, and the various institutions probably hold more money than the totals indicate.

The reported loss of cash holding is small, amounting to $223,600, but this, combined with the extra reserve necessitated by the expansion of $2,794,500 deposits decreases the surplus a litle more than $1,000,000, bringing the total of $26,656,250, which is very much higher than at the corresponding periods over several years past. The gain of $1,359,000 in loans was rather larger than anticipated. The present volume of the loan item, amounting to nearly $39,000,000, is the highest of the al of money to the interior, must operate in the direction of lowering the surplus reserve very rapidly.

The principal point of interest just at present is the estimated requirements for crop moving purposes. Careful inquiry extending over large areas of territory leads to the impression that the drain on New York this year will be less than usual owing to the abundance of the money at other centers, but for all that, bankers of long experience are cautious in endorsing this opinion. One factor that it to be taken into consideration is that the doubling of the circulation by national banks at this center. It is expected that this money will be used largely in interior remittances and the effect will be to furnish a great deal of currency without a radical reduction in reserves. The country was today nearly, or quite, eighty millions of national bank currency more than a year ago, and there is no question that it is to plan an important part in the fall business now at hand. Oscar Bybee and a number of other Uintah gentlemen were in Ogden yes-terday looking up the proposition and A. L. Brewer of this city, manager of the Hooper factory, has became interested in the project. Over $3,000 has already been subscribed for stock by the Uintah and Blaine farmers and as much more can be raised.

ity-five per cent of the sum subscribed is expected to be paid in by Oct. 1. The plan is so far along that the question of a site is being considered. This matter is being held in abeyance by reason of the union Pacific railroad. Some time ago a route was surveyed throwing the line back against the hill, bringing the depot about one-third mile north of its present site.

If no change is made it is proposed to locate the factory just south of the depot on the Freeborg or Stokes property. If the change in line is made, another site may have to be chosen in order to be convenient to a side track. Uintah people reason that they are near to the fine tomato and fruit country of Davis and Weber county and furthermore are close to railroad facilities. The fact that the Uintah canals have the first irrigating rights on the Weber river is another fact that is urged in favor of the enterprise since there can be no scarcity of crop because of drought.

As most of the growers in Uintah, Burch Creek and Blaine will own stock in the concern, they will furnish the factory tomatoes in preference to any other factory and hence ample will be assured.

The farmers estimate that they can

Mr. Cooper said that the tendency of a vacation is to disintegrate, but that it is a most fortunate thing that recuiperation is quick and strong.

"All" of the good accomplished in former years, "said Mr. Cooper, "forms are three things on the threshold of a reserve fund for future years. There are three things on the threshold of a reserve fund for future years. There are three things on the threshold of the year that every teacher can do, and they are: that he can make the inference best, and that he ought to make it the best, and that he ought of make it the best, and that he ought of make it the best, and that he ought of make it the best, and that he ought of make it the best, and that he ought of make it the best, and that he ought of make it the least, and they are: that he ought of make it the best, and that he ought of make it the least, and that he ought of make it the least of his life; that he ought of make it the least, and the move words: "We need your freshness and power; you need us; we are linked together; the new should be fused with the old; we will have it so.

"The young teacher should climb carefully; he should exercise prudence and foreight; he should always be prepared for every emergency, as it is the unexpected that happens." The best compliment that he could pay at eacher is that he always knows what taccher is that he always knows what to do next. A good general always overestimates the power and force of the enemy, and underestimates his own strength. The difference between Buller and Roberts is that the former attempted battle before he was ready, while the latter had everything in readiness before he struck a blow. No teacher should be a plunger; he should address himself to this work by care to his car does not turn on all the current at once, but by degrees.

Two thousand years ago it was spoken, "Behold, I make all things force to his car does not turn on all the current at once, but by degrees.

there will never be a tomorrow.

In closing, Mr. Cooper stated that in the year to come there would be difficulty experienced, and there would be light and love as well. No one must expect to be exempt from trouble, but it should be met courageously. "There are," said he, "two sides to teaching—the objective and the subjective, the former of which is the more important. The vision of the teacher should be distinct and diligent, but there are other realms that require his presence, and these cannot be ignored."
